

EB and SCC

Left hand 2015 December was the first scc. Over the years I have had multiple. Mainly arms and hands. Also, thigh, knee and currently ankle. Tried mohs, ended up doing removal in OR*which is the main treatment choice*. Later Tried Laser light therapy. Also immunotherapy *steroids and antibiotics to counteract effects. I have also had it in lymph nodes. I am starting the cancer trial soon.

Some areas, It won't always look the same. Some possibilities:

Black smells like rot

Some look like regular scabs

hypergranulated

We truly never know. Which is why my previous dog was scent trained to detect scc. She was trained on a sample removed from my thigh. Jane is currently learning. George was able to detect pre-cancer cells.
